

The URA would like to announce the formation of two subcommittees that will meet over the summer to develop draft criteria. The subcommittee membership and the charge will soon be available on our website. Both subcommittees are meeting next week to get started.

It is heartening to see the engagement that we have already had at our open fora and by the number of volunteers for this summer work. Indeed, more than 60 people volunteered, and, though we could select only a few, it is important that the entire community take ownership of this process so that we can more clearly and transparently make decisions.

It is important to remember that these groups are tasked with providing us with a draft for the entire community in the fall, so we are asking them to seek extensive input as they work.
